Many students have cell phones and they don't spend a lot of time with their family. When they finish eating dinner, they go back to their rooms and start sending messages to their friends.

I don't have a cell phone, but my friends do. They often said to me, "If you have a cell phone, you can send messages every night. So you should have a cell phone." I was interested in sending messages to them, but there was a problem. One day, one of them said to me, "I get about 20 messages every night, so it takes lots of time to answer these messages. Sometimes I don't have time to do my homework." I thought they lost something important by using cell phones too much.

In my school, we have a "No Media Week". During that week, nobody uses cell phones. I enjoy talking with my family, and my friends also do. They now know that it is important to communicate with each other face to face. They have a great time indeed.

After the "No Media Week", I want to say to my friends, "()"
